Mark Webster writes:

Happy holidays! As I write this our last task of 2023 is taking place, please see below for 2024. The eagle-eyed amongst you will soon spot that I haven't quite managed to get all of next month organised before having a Xmas break, but this should keep you going for a while, and I hope to get the last week or so of January filled in early next year – perhaps with February's programme.

Anyway, file the January programme (see below) away while you indulge in all the festivities (if you wish) and I look forward to seeing your service users sometime in 2024. I would like to give a massive
